

Name of the Cell/Department:The Department of Journalism and Mass Communication

Academic year: 2022-23

Name of the program:Masquerade

Date:29-04-2022

Venue: Seminar Hall 2

Description:

On the enchanting evening of April 29, 2022, Invertis University bid a bittersweet farewell to its graduating students through an enthralling event named "Masquerade." The event was impeccably organized by The Department of Journalism and Mass Communication, symbolizing the end of the academic year 2022-23 and celebrating the journey of the graduating students.

The Department of Journalism and Mass Communication, renowned for fostering creativity, critical thinking, and effective communication skills, took the initiative to host this memorable farewell party. The objective was to celebrate the achievements and contributions of the graduating students while reminiscing about the vibrant memories shared during their academic tenure.

The event commenced with a welcome speech by the Head of the Department, who extended warm wishes and appreciation to the graduating students for their hard work and dedication. The aura was set ablaze with lively performances, including dance, music, and theatrical acts, presented by fellow students to express their love and admiration for the departing batch.

A significant highlight was the 'Masquerade' theme, adding an element of mystique and allure to the event. Attendees adorned in elegant masks brought an enchanting ambiance, making the evening all the more special. The students showcased their creativity and enthusiasm by choosing unique and elaborate masks, each one telling a story.

Faculty members shared their experiences and provided valuable advice to the students as they embarked on the new chapter of their lives. They emphasized the importance of perseverance, passion, and integrity in the field of journalism and mass communication.

As the night unfolded, a symbolic memento distribution ceremony was held, where each student received a token of appreciation and a personalized mask, signifying their transformative journey at Invertis University and encouraging them to embrace the diverse roles they would play in their future careers.

The event concluded with a grand dinner, allowing for informal interactions and fostering the spirit of togetherness. Laughter, tears, and heartfelt farewells filled the air, creating an unforgettable evening that will forever be etched in the hearts of the graduating students and their mentors.

In conclusion, the "Masquerade" farewell party organized by The Department of Journalism and Mass Communication beautifully encapsulated the essence of their academic journey, honoring their achievements and setting the stage for a promising and successful future in the realm of media and communication.

Registrar
Invertis University
Bareilly

Coordinator